

Israel in Egypt
Updated 10/25/12

"In the Masoretic version of the Old Testament the passage in Exodus 12:40 reads as follows:

"The time that the Israelites spent in Egypt was four hundred and thirty years." If we turn to the history of Israel recorded by Josephus in his Antiquities of the Jews (Chapter XV:2) we get an entirely different version of events: 'they (the Israelites) left Egypt in the month of Xanthicus, on the fifteenth day of the lunar month; four hundred and thirty years after our forefather Abraham came into Canaan, but two hundred and fifteen years only after Jacob removed into Egypt.'

Now, according to the statements of Josephus himself, he had access to very old documents formerly housed in the Temple of Jerusalem from which to draw his account of early Israelite history. Josephus lived in the first century AD and so his writings are dated hundreds of years before the Masoretic text of the Tanakh (Hebrew Old Testament) was compiled in the fourth century AD. If his source documents were genuine, then the information he gives for the duration of the Sojourn derives from a much earlier period than that employed by the Masoretes when they made their version of the history of Israel and a further several centuries before the earliest extant copy of the Masoretic text. It is fairly easy to see what happened in the interval of time between Josephus' day and that of the Masoretes: During the process of copying down the original scrolls over the intervening centuries, a section of text something on the lines of 'and in the land of Canaan' had fallen out (or had been edited out). This is confirmed by the Greek rendition of the Old Testament (the Septuagint or LXX) which retains the original full version of the passage: 'And the sojourning of the children of Israel, that is which they sojourned in the land of Egypt and in the land of canaan, was four hundred and thirty years. [Exodus 12:40]'. The Septuagint was first written down in the time of Ptolemy I during the third century BC and the earliest surviving manuscript is again much older than the earliest surviving Masoretic copy. The Samaritan version of the first five books of the Old Testament (the Pentateuch) is also considerably more ancient than the Masoretic scriptures and it too retains the longer rendition of the passage on the length of the Sojourn. Thus, three out of four sources for the book of Exodus state that the four-hundred-and-thirty-year interval represents the whole period from Abram's descent into Canaan all the way down to the Exodus." Gen 15:13 "And he said unto Abram, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years."
This sounds like Israel would be afflicted for 400 years, but not necessarily in Egypt. Since none of the detailed chronologies seem to suggest that the House of Israel was actually in Egypt for 400 years, we should consider another interpretation: that the Lord was indicating it would be 400 years from

Gen 15:16 "But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again: for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full."

This seems to indicate that the bondage would not end until the fourth generation. Although not clear as to what generation he's starting from, if we start with Isaac (because this blessing was apparently given at his birth):

We don't know exactly what the Lord means when he says a generation. If we assume 100 year "generations", this would tie with the 400 year count. If we count actual generations, as from Isaac above, the time could be much shorter.

Exo 12:40-41 "Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years. And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt."

Most of us at one time or another have assumed that the 400 years of bondage ties with this 430 sojourning, indicating that the Israelites were in Egypt before the bondage only 30 years. This does not seem consistent with the descriptions of Joseph, and his relationship to the Pharaohs etc. (See Josephus p. 62, Jasher 81:3-4, Joseph & Aseneth, the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, etc.) Some authors have asserted that the 430 year count starts with Abraham's covenant when he was 70 years old.

Galatians 3:16-17 "Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ. And this I say, that the covenant, that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect."

Although the wording is unclear, it seems to give impetus for the 430 year count starting with Abraham's covenant and ending with Moses receiving the law.

Putting these scriptures into the context of available detailed chronologies, we can derive the accompanying table:
